Latest Technology

The Seaward Prime Test 300 is top of the range and the very latest in portable appliance testing equipment. All required tests are pre-programmed to ensure compliance with the latest Australian standards. (AS/NZS3760:2010). The Prime Test 300 utilizes wireless blue tooth technology eliminating the use of cumbersome trolleys and dangerous extension leads run across walkways. The Prime Test 300 compact design allows our technicians to move freely throughout your workplace creating the bare minimum of disruption to your working day and ensures the job is completed in an efficient and timely manner.

Portable appliance testing (PAT Testing) has become a fundamental requirement for maintaining structural safety in the workplace.

Evidence shows that a large number of the dangers, deaths and injuries caused by electrical or faulty electrical equipment can be prevented when proper maintenance, inspection and safety testing procedures are in place.

In this way, planned and proactive portable appliance testing programmes help to avert potential safety problems with electrical appliances before they occur.
